The Carhsle Mercury gives the following instance of female heroism: "On the Friday before Christmas week Miss Smelley, of this country, performed an act which for female heroism is worthy of special mention. She was teaching echool near Pleasant Valley, on the other side of Lieking, while her residence is on this side of the river. On the Friday stated she started for home, as was her custom, and when she reached Tarks' Ferry found the river full of heavy floating lee. The ferryman deeming it uneafe to take his boat across the river, our heroise had one of two things to do-swim her hores across the river and brave the dangers or remain away from home and relatives. Desirous of getting home that atternoon, else determined to cross the river. Putting the whip to the horse, she started across. The large heavy cakes of lee came thick and g the whip to the horse, she started across, e large heavy cakes of ice came thick and t down the rapid current of the swollen er, yet the faithful horse and gallant rider dd their own, and floally succeeded in gain-ths side of the river. It was a most dan-cons undertaking, and one that very few meren would have attempted."

The impression is v.ry general that the Georgia Legislature is, or will soon be, in session; this is a mistake. There will be no regular session before the first Wednesday in November pert, unless convened by the Governor, and in that case the session would be held by the old members and not by those who were elected in December, 1870.

We have head of some planters grinding their upright or round ricks. The upper portions of the mist must have suffered severely. The sugar crop of 1871 must necessarily be short. The immense cattle trade of Southwest Virginia, though yet comparatively in its infancy, is nevertheless an item in the business of the State which is not by any means to be deplied. In the year 1899 the amount realized piled, for the year 1979 it has attained a much greater sum, with a prospect of continued yearly increase.

Colored farmers, representing eleven counties of Texas, have been in convention in Houston. The main object of the convention seemed to be to encourage the colored race to secure lands of their own as fast as they were able to pay for them, and to engage in the cultivation of the soil, instead of renaining about our towns and villages, and depending upon the precarious means of support there to be obtained.

The troubles of an engineer on a Tennes see railroad the other day consisted in what night be told about as follows: The safety-valve blew out to commence with. Then, after the steam had escaped from the boiler and the fire cooled down, a wooden plug was driven in and securely fastened by the lever of the valve being field down, and the train proceeded on his destination. It was not long, however, before the wooden plug was blown out. It was then driven in again, but it's o happened that ere the, train reached Jonesboro the lever of the throttle of the engineer of the train laid up.

Sullivan, one of the alleged accomplices in the unvierious murder of Ada Jones, in an ultimable bouse in Memphis, some weeks ago, has made z full coalession, fastening the crime upon Roberts, her lover. He states that Roberts said that he went to the draw abop, above which the murder was committed, for the purpose of ridding himself of the unfortunate woman. When Roberts and Sullivan went with the woman into the room in which she was shot and killed. Roberts, wi'h a pistol in his right hand, placed his arm about her neck as she sat in a chair, and her back was pressed against his bosom. He fired the pistol. The woman was instantiv killed. She was sitting in the chair when Roberts thus drew her toward him.

The New York Sun dishes up this co nundrum to its political triends: "As high-ninded Republicans scan the long row of GRANT's brothers, brothers-in-law, nepheys, cousins and other relatives, down to the third and fourth generation, with their noses in the public crib, do they not long for the sight of a Parisher of the sight of the for the sight of a President who will give some better proof of his attachment to the faith of the Republican party than in so prostituting his great office as to provide his own household?" That is about what's the matter, sure enough.

Speaking of General GRANT the New York Sun says: "A large number of the most lucrative offices have been given to those who have bestowed upon him costly presents in houses, lands, money, bonds, plate, horses, carriages, dogs and other valuables." This is false. We, the friends f General GRANT, cheerfully admit that he has exchanged lucrative offices for stly presents in houses, lands, money, nds, plate, horses, carriages and other valuables, but we deny the dogs, most pos-itively. The only dog ever offered him in exchange for a lucrative office was the celebrated Cleveland pup, and everybody knows that the President refused to pay

A correspondent of the Cerlisle Mercury puts the following conundrum: "A few days since my hands cut downs a red-oak tree for alias. The Disturbances in Kentucky.

On the assembling of the Legislature, Gov. Stevenson in his message communicated to that body the fact that numer-ous outrages were being committed within, the bounds of the Commonwealth by or-ganized parties of men, and made some message was reterred, are disposed for ac-tion, having already held two consul-tations on the subject, and intending to hold a third, when something decisive may let it alone in any other way.

be agreed upon, this afternoon.
Upon the prudence and wisdom of this committee the prosperity and welfare of Kentucky depend in no small degree, and we have reason to hope that their re-port will be of such a character as, being confirmed by the Legislature, to put an end to the disturbances complained of. We understand that at the meeting of the committee yesterday evening a most strincommittee yesterday evening a most strin-gent bill, containing well-devised provis-ions for the detection and punishment of the irresponsible midnight murderers who have gotten portions of the State into such trouble, and giving to the Governor the authority to employ a secret detective police, was adopted. This goes to the root dark of the policy was adopted. This goes to the root and he could outswear the whole school. of the matter, and such a law, if enacted, will soon put a quietus upon the disturbers of the public peace. Give to the officers of the law the power of enforcing it, and provide for the arrest and severe punishment of all engaged in the Kuklux out-rages, so called, and all will be well. As ese outrages are usually directed against dered to Kentucky, with instructions to quell the disturbances to which we allude, but the effectual quelling of those disturb-ances depends upon the Legislature and the people of the State. We trust that the action of the Legislature will be such in this matter as the wel tare of society and the prosperity of our State demand, and that sharp, energetic suppression of this crying evil.

As to independence, why, that has never crossed our mind. Of course we are independent in the sense of not being dependent on anybody or any-thing except our own work. The Cou-RIER JOURNAL can do what it pleases, say what if pleases, go where it pleases, and, like the excellent Poyser, it "aint afeared o' nobody nor nothin', save and exceptin' the Ruler of All." This being quite settled in its mind it makes no merit of it nor easts of it, but feels a most humble sense of responsibility and tries to do its duty as it is able to see it. The Pall Mall Gazette contains a clever article on "self-restraint and self-sacrifice," from which we cull the following passage: 'It has been said that to tell the French they are beaten and must capitulate, would entail political death on the individual who did so; and that the Freuchman is not yet born who could make a sacrifice of that nature. Nor are the Prussians much wiser. In the mass they sacrifice what they have made up their minds to sacrifice-their usual pursuits, their free action their constitutional slowness and physical indolence and their money—of the last as little as possible. But they have not resolved to restrain or conquer those faults which render their victory a thousand times more difficult, their acquisition of the reward a thousand times more distant, their peaceful enjoyment of it an actual impossibility; they have not even discovered the necessity of it. All this is due to an unfortunate combination of intellectual culture with mental arro gance, moral stupidity, a somewhat coarse and animal nature, and remarkably appleasant manners. They have never yet been able to reconcile any other peo-ple to their yoke, and, indeed, have not the special capacity for it, in which respect they are greatly inferior to the French. I is not premature to observe that, even in the hour of their success, the Prus-sians have already contrived to call forth the banter and derision of the Freach. A King who thanks Gon

We are glad that is the general demoralization that has taken place in the whicky business of the country during the pass few years, we have a goodly numowl of dealers who adhered to the business of manufacturing and seiling none but the very best, such as our forefathers drank when men lived out all their days. For the past three years it has required courage to stem the tide which threatened to drive from the market real pure whiskies. The revenue laws, perverted ta-tes and the dosire for gain have combined to introduce counterfeits, and to a large extent have been successful, but men are beginning to pearn that the pure article after all is the cheanest, and this may be obtained at S. Clark's establishment, where a large stock may be inspected, running from new to whiskies thireen years old. Mr. Clark engines his business to the old siyle of hand-made sour-mash whisky, and those who purchase of him may rely upon getting the pure article.
